

SELF-SERVE COPYING: TERMS and CONDITIONS

1. The material to be reproduced is for the purpose of private study, research, criticism, review or newspaper summary and does not constitute an infringement of copyright.
2. The recipient of the reproduction assumes all risks of copyright infringement and by such use gives an undertaking to the University that no such infringement will occur.
3. Self-serve digital images cannot be reproduced, transferred, published or posted on the internet. Researchers must notify the University of Toronto Archives if they intend to publish images and must obtain permission to use any images in any publications, exhibition, film, video or TV broadcast or on any CD or website.
4. The Library reserves the right, as its discretion, to limit the number of, or to decline to make any photoduplicates. The Library also reserves the right to limit or to not permit self-serve digital photography.
5. Researchers are responsible for maintaining complete and accurate citations of all items that are reproduced. Requests for permission to publish that are received without this information will not be processed.
6. Digital reproductions taken by researchers will not be represented as an official version of the documents reproduced or as having been made in affiliation with, or with the endorsement of the University of Toronto Archives.
